

Projects for Peace: Converting Livestock Manure into a Fuel Source for Thai Ethnic Tribes

Liza Mitchell, Phillip Sasser, Julianne Kellogg

Our Idea

There are nine major ethnic tribes located in Northern Thailand which are often referred to collectively as 'the hilltribes'. However, each of these ethnic groups have their own communities throughout the region, and although they interact more and more as globalization spreads, they all maintain their own identities. These identities are manifested in their dress, language, cultural

Major Objectives / Project Specifics

The purpose of this project is to build small scale methane biodigesters in various hilltribe

Budget

Total people working on project: 3

Transportation

- To and From Thailand:$1700/person *3 persons = $5100
- Visa Fees.....$150/person *3persons=$450
- Within Thailand
 - Trains:$200/person = $600
 - Buses and Taxis:$100/person = $30

Room and Board