

The new lineup reflects the changing needs of listeners. "A split-format like ours is no longer viable with today's media-consumption style," Terwelp says.